But all of it's gone and today she arrives where she has a citizen's work to do, but she'll always be just a little kid, to her dad, weather's warmer and seventy two.

HERSHEY AUXILIARY HAS SPLENDID MEETING

One of the most delightful evenings ever had by the Hershey Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church was on Monday evening when the members were entertained in the home of Mrs. John Elliott, Berger place, with Mrs. William Country, Mrs. Leroy Taylor, Mrs. Earl Ramsey, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. O. P. Brown and Mrs. S. W. Perry as joint hostesses. Forty-two members and a number of guests were present.

Mrs. Ira Ramsey opened the devotional period with "Mark" as her topic and she brought her message in a concise, well handled manner.

Mrs. Harry McKee gave a talk on "Alaska" in connection with roll call. A short business session was held and among other things decided upon to be sent to Mrs. Wendell Duff in India and to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Through arrangements made by Mrs. John Foster it was made possible for Robert Post of New Wilmington, who has but recently returned from India, to give an interesting and most enlightening talk on "India of Today" and the rapid attention of the audience denoted the intense interest he held in his subject.

Miss Rebecca Garvin, in her usual charming manner, with Mrs. Ruth Flannery at the piano, sang a solo.

Concluding the business meeting, Mrs. H. E. Golder, president held a short memorial service for Mrs. Ruby MacNab Waddington, a charter member of the auxiliary and bringing this to a close Miss Garvin sweetly sang "God Will Wipe All Tears Away."

At the close of the business and program the hostesses took charge and, inviting the members and guests to the dining room, at a daintily appointed table, served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. C. F. McDowell will be chairman of hostesses at the meeting November 3.

WOMAN'S CLUB HAS LUNCHEON

In all of its details, the luncheon and opening meeting of the Woman's club held Monday afternoon at The Castleton was a complete success. Not the least enjoyable was the preliminary social gathering in the lobby and parlors of the hotel where club associates, separated during the summer by a variety of individual interest again greeted each other and exchanged experiences. Particular attention was given in having the new members presented to the officers and an atmosphere of friendliness prevailed.

A variety of fall flowers adorned the tables in the dining room, being artistically arranged, where a sumptuous menu was served. Mrs. S. E. McClary offered the prayer of thanks and invocation. With the bringing on of the dessert, Mrs. A. B. Street, the club's new president, gave a tribute to the faithfulness and efficiency of our retiring president, Mrs. W. A. Pond, through an appropriate toast.

At the close of the menu, all retired to the ball room where a short business meeting was held and a delightful program was given. In her inaugural address, the president, Mrs. A. B. Street took for granted the continuation of good team work and the unity of effort and stressed the importance of individual self-reliance and responsibility in advancing and building up the interests of the Woman's club.

Mrs. Street then introduced honored guests of the club who brought greetings from their several home clubs. These included Mrs. G. C. Schremp, president of the Butler County Federation; Mrs. Grace B. Dunlop, president of the Outlook club of Beaver Falls; Mrs. J. P. Waxenfelder of the College Hill club and Mrs. J. W. Humphrey of the Woman's club of Ellwood City.

Introduced as "gad-about" members who had roamed in the foreign parts during the summer, their most distinct impressions of their respective trips were given by Mrs. F. F. Urey, Mrs. S. E. Crawford, and Mrs. S. D. Pearson. Mrs. Urey gave a graphic account of the Passion play and its setting; something of the beauties of Switzerland and Venice with some impressions of the Mediterranean and Paris. Mrs. Crawford found most interesting, the people of Holland and their country. Mrs. Pearson devoted her time to a description of the World war monuments of England, and Scotland which she explained were not interesting on account of the monuments themselves, but because of the depths of emotion and loveliness of sentiment expressed in their inscription.

This most excellent program was arranged by Mrs. E. F. G. Harper, Mrs. F. S. Breneman and Mrs. R. C. Maxwell.

The social committee in charge consisted of Mrs. S. E. Crawford, Mrs. Andrew Reid, Mrs. E. V. Snyder, Mrs. George Long, Mrs. R. L. Wallace, Mrs. C. W. Nolan, Mrs. B. F. Maribier, Mrs. Gail Blim, Mrs. Samuel Kiefer, Mrs. W. R. Bincham, Mrs. Robert McBurney, Mrs. G. W. Sutton, Mrs. C. F. McDowell, Mrs. W. G. Eckles, Mrs. B. H. Kannengeiser, Miss Jennie Marshall, Mrs. A. G. Murphy and Mrs. H. B. Richards.

Mrs. Henry Rodgers had the program in charge and the various topics were ably discussed by Helen White, Clara Cotton, Mildred Smith and Clara Smyth.

The evening closed with dainty refreshments and adjournment was made to meet November 3 at the home of Mrs. R. L. Boyd, North Jefferson street.

THE READING CIRCLE HAS FIRST CATERING

Monday afternoon marked another important social event on the calendar when The Reading Circle members gathered at the home of their honorary president, Mrs. T. W. Phillips, on Highland avenue for their first meeting of the fall season. Most fittingly observed was this occasion, when they participated in a delicious luncheon served at one o'clock which added interest to the happy get-together atmosphere, when amusing and interesting experiences were exchanged that happened to each during the summer months.

Covers were laid for 40, including members and special guests, at tables beautifully arranged in fall blooms. After the serving a business meeting was held, during which time their new president, Mrs. Jacob Rentz, and Mrs. T. W. Phillips gave interesting talks, stressing loyalty and co-operation among the members; that which is needed in any organization to make it successful in all its undertakings. Both talks were well received and many vital points of interest were brought up and discussed.

A social time was later enjoyed, when a musical program especially arranged for this occasion was presented. Mrs. William J. Caldwell, who is the possessor of a lovely soprano voice, accompanied by Mrs. Jay L. Reed, sang several selections that were greatly enjoyed. Another feature of the entertainment was a "musical reading" by Miss Elizabeth Milholland, who performed in her usual pleasing manner.

Special guests included Mrs. Grace Morton Doyle of Franklin, Mrs. L. A. Braum of Bellevue, Miss Kathryn Dennison of Washington, Pa.; Mrs. Victoria Garbisch of Butler and Mrs. Charles Johnson Jr.

The officers of the club for '30 and '31 comprise Mrs. Jacob Rentz, president; Mrs. W. W. Sniff, vice president; Mrs. C. H. Milholland, secretary; Mrs. V. W. Hoyer, treasurer, and Mrs. John Street, assistant secretary.

The next meeting of The Reading Circle will occur in two weeks at the home of Mrs. A. D. Newell, Fairfield avenue.

Katherine Von Boras Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the Katherine Von Boras Society of St. John's Lutheran church was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Woods, Moody avenue, with Mrs. Oscar Benson as joint hostess. Stough, who referred to his trip abroad in connection with points brought out by Ardis Ryhn, president of the class, had charge of the business meeting and at this time Miss Mary Riffer, a special guest, brought several matters of importance before the class, and being a member of the W. M. S. of the church extended an invitation to the society to participate in the ture dinner to be given by them in the church on October 28 at 6 o'clock and also to take part in the Thank Offering service which will be held in November.

Plans were made for a Halloween party to be held the last of the month with Mary Johnson, Catherine Weinschen and Florence Mitchell as the committee on arrangements.

They will leave New Castle Friday evening, and anticipate to have much of interest to discuss at their next meeting, concerning the conference.

Crime Never Pays

TRAGIC END OF THE R-101

DISASTER to the British dirigible, R-101, is one of the most tragic on record. There were fifty-three passengers on board, in addition to the crew, and the condition of those who were not burned to death on the spot is critical. Only the lists of dead on the Dixmude, the Roma, the ZR 2 and the Zeppelin L2 bear nearly so many names. The R-101 was bound for India; but she crashed to the ground at Beauvais, France, and immediately burst into flames. Among the lost are Lord Thomson, British Air Minister, as well as many of the foremost aircraft authorities in Great Britain. It is no wonder that their countrymen are stunned by the disaster.

In the advance of official inquiry into facts it is impossible to draw any certain conclusions. There has been more or less contention about the R-101 and its slightly smaller sister ship, the R-100, since they were completed. The experts were not in agreement upon their airworthiness. Yet the R-100 made a successful voyage to Canada and return earlier in the year, and it does not appear that any dangerous defects were discovered in her, despite the misadventure which slightly delayed her landing. Naturally enough, the removal of the ban on smoking in the R-101 is suggested as a possible reason for the explosion. But the crash itself may sufficiently account for that. There was a gale blowing at the time, and this may be the real explanation of the disaster.

It is a terrible tragedy from every point of view. Quite possibly no amount of discussion will wholly explain it. The wireless operator, who was among those who escaped death, simply says that he was asleep at the time and knew nothing until he found himself lying on the ground. Probably investigation will have to go behind the immediate event. The danger inherent in an airship filled with explosive gas is obvious to the layman. The question remains whether any possible precautions can eliminate it. The large number of fatal disasters may be regarded as a negative answer. The time has clearly not yet come when a traveller may trust his life to an airship as confidently as to a steamship.

Efforts to extend air travel will go on, of course, regardless of the fate of the R-101. It must be borne in mind that the airplane is carrying thousands of passengers for shorter distances yearly with comparatively few accidents. The crossing of oceans and continents by dirigibles is another matter. The sacrifice of life on the R-101 will increase general suspicion and probably postpone for a time the realization of ambitious schemes for a regular transatlantic service.

OCTOBER

October, the tenth month, although its name indicates that it was eighth in the early Roman calendar, owes its thirty-one days to superstition. At least the ancients attributed this arrangement to the belief that luck lies in odd numbers.

This thirty-first day makes October distinctive, preserving, as it does, the Halloween fires, survivals of Druidical ceremonies and the ancient and honorable English customs of cracking nuts, ducking for apples in a tub and other harmless fireside revelries brought down to us from the festival of Pomona, goddess of fruit trees. These provide touches characteristic of October, when husbandmen store away the products of orchards and gardens and the harvest moon hangs over the fields where—

The frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock. . . . These and the blue haze on the hills, the rainbow hues of its trees and the still unquenched flame of the golden rod glorify October down to the end of its odd-numbered days.

SLOUCHINESS

Tramps and loafers and the slovenly slouch along the highways and byways of life because they lack that self-respect which braces a man's shoulders and inspire others to say of him "he's no slouch."

It is undoubtedly true that the slouch habit is often a mental attitude. It is a habit of mind as well as of body, and reflects slack thinking and slack muscles from self-coddling indulgence and a bent and twisted philosophy of life.

On the other hand, the swagger of the bully, the strut of the conceited and vain, indicate the need for more back bone and less chest. There is time enough at the dawn and dusk of life for this slouching and sagging. The new-born babe is unable to hold itself erect; its head topples over, its back is rounded with the weakness natural to infancy. Old age, worn and near the end of the journey, is bent and bowed with the burdens of a long life and with the weariness of years.

Criminals invariably slouch amidst the shadows and one wonders whether it is the life of crime that makes the slouch or if the slouch habit makes the criminal. That there is some connection between the two there can be no doubt.

Those who resent the Darwinian insinuation that they have a common ancestry with the ape should divert suspicion by assuming the erect posture foreign to the ape family.

Fame is much like radio. The more the volume, the more the static.

The hope chest is with us yet, but it contains fewer embroidered dish towels.

When the train is coming, the driver who tries to beat it over the crossing is going.

In another generation the LaFollettes will be claiming office by divine right.

The just may blame the drought on the unjust, but the one got no more rain than the other.

Judging from reports it's a wonder these hot jazz-age parties don't set off the automatic sprinkler system.

We're still waiting expectantly for those schoolboy tree-sitters of last summer to start a study-endurance contest.

TEACHING YEAR AROUND

New York's board of education acts wisely when it decides against the all-year school plan. Teachers are assured the continuance of their ten weeks' vacation. Wrestling with the young mind requires a teacher in sound mental, physical, spiritual condition. Vacations are none too long, provided teachers use the time for improvement as well as mere rest. Most of them do.

ATMOSPHERE

A well known artist has been employed to do oil paintings for one of the crack trains of a great railroad company. Now that the novelty of travel and train has worn off the demand is for the creation of the atmosphere of club or home. The watchword of the rich is comfort. Business will go to the concern which can supply the most.

WASTE INTO RICHES

Rubber from crude petroleum leather from pulp mill waste and sugar from cottonseed hulls interest both business and science. The turning of waste materials into by-products of value is a romance of modern industrialism. We don't need to worry about running out of resources so long as we find new ways of using what we have.

THE UNIVERSITY LOCKSTEP

University of Wisconsin proposes to give the facilities of the school to students who do not wish to march or try to march through the four years of a college course. This will break up the lockstep regimental procession. All students who do two years in the university will be given certificates. This is moving toward greater formality in educational practice. It means greater opportunity to a greater number. May other colleges take notice.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

ONCE OVERS

Are You Mentally Lazy? You wonder at times why you are not a great success.

In school you were numbered among the upper third. Others had to dig for what they got, but you never seemed to study.

Perhaps you learned to be mentally lazy on that account. It was so easy for you to maintain a place ahead of the rest in school that you imagined life would be just like that—you could get along with little effort.

If you have given sensible thought to the subject you have realized that worthwhile results mean a commensurate amount of work.

You are bound to meet others as bright as you are and in constant competition with them. This does not mean that you compete for knowledge but for the application of the knowledge you both have gained.

You cannot win a place in the sun unless you use your brains intelligently.

Mentally exercise to be worthwhile must be increasingly stronger. You found it easy to acquire knowledge, now it is how to use the facts.

You can't lie down on the job just because you were an "A" student and could keep your grades high with the best of them.

Now it is life and you must find a personally unique way to use the knowledge a great many others possess as well as you and success comes from using your mental equipment better than the other fellow.

INDEPENDENT VS CHAIN STORES.

Public sentiment favors the local merchant who is a part of the community, participates in its civic enterprise, patronizes its local banks and contributes to its economic welfare.

The independent merchant's position in America's structure is justified on economic grounds. He neither needs nor seeks any preferential method of doing business and all he asks is that no competitor have any unfair advantage over him.

A recent study indicates that independent stores operate approximately as economically as chain stores. This leaves the latter with an advantage only in large volume purchasing. Much of this supposed advantage is lost in warehousing, transportation and other operations, because eliminating the jobbers does not eliminate his function nor the cost of performing it.

Many enterprising merchants in Wisconsin are now overcoming this one disadvantage by cooperative buying in which the newly created Division of Cooperatives in the Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture and Markets is furnishing able leadership. The Department will continue to carry on this important work and lend further assistance by preventing fraudulent and unfair trade practices.

Likewise, the independent merchant can further improve his position by giving additional study to his show windows, merchandising, warehousing, inventory and stock records, accounting, finance and other factors in good management.

Proposed New Cabinet Post Creates State Rights Issue

Very Limited Support Given To Representative Ruth Bryan Owen's Effort To Create Department Of Homes And Children

Recollections of the old fight over a Federal Department of Education are aroused by the proposal from Representative Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida that a new cabinet and a new Federal department be created to give attention to the interests of homes and children. Vigorous arguments against the plan are presented, and many of those whose comment is favorable look upon the matter as an experiment.

Favorable treatment is given by the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, which after noting that Mrs. Owen believes that the government needs "a department to correlate the various agencies that now function in the service of child labor, home economics, infant health, and many other services," continues: "We believe she is right. When we consider that the home and the child, foundation stones of Government and civilization itself, are not represented in a council of State, surely we approve such a move. Mothers in this country are not furnished as much information and help as breeders of live stock. Instruction in pre-natal care, child rearing, management of the home are more important to women of this country than any amount of Government aid to farmers or manufacturers."

"At least the matter is worth threshing out," says the TOLEDO BLADE agreeing that it "will receive consideration," and that "anything concerning the American home and its children will have sentimental appeal, but sentimentalism will not save the bill." For "there is a stoical element in Congress that will have to be convinced of its practicability." The SANTA ROSA PRESS DEMOCRAT recalls that "there have been plans and suggestions before for reorganizing and simplifying the different governmental departments, but nothing much has ever been done." Mrs. Owen believes her plan "continues that paper," "will be in line with these proposals; it is worth thinking about and studying further, at any rate."

"Mrs. Owen does not seem to have set the country aflame with her bill," thinks the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, offering the conclusion as to the result that might be expected from such changes: "The idea is prevalent that welfare of both home and child will be best served if permitted to remain under influences now on guard. The people would no more think of committing these charges to the guidance of political Washington than they would of placing the public schools under the dominion of some bureaucracy there. So far as the schools are concerned this idea has been resisted whenever offered. Parents have concluded that if their own districts are unable to administer school affairs, in vain will they look to Federal officials for a better guidance. The change would mean thousands of clumsy and incompetent jobholders, who would be snoots and inspectors and the probers of concerns that do not belong to them. To subject the home and its children to the same distant regulations would be even more repugnant to the average citizen's sense of right."

"We do need such an agency, or rather agencies, but it, or they, should not be a part of the Federal Government," declares the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, quoting Representative Beck of Pennsylvania as stating that the people of the United States have come to "lean too much on the Federal Government." The BUFFALO EVENING NEWS adds that "The Cabinet is too large now," and offers the judgment: "If such a service as Mrs. Owen proposes is to be created, let it be left among the bureaus. Women are eligible today for any cabinet posts and for the presidency. There is no need to create a special cabinet position for a woman to fill."

Outside of the comparatively few members of either house who believe in Federal socialism, and who would override every State right in favor of Federal jurisdiction," in the opinion of the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, "there is not much sympathy at Washington with proposals to extend Federal activities farther into the community and the home. It is realized that the authority of the United States is not original, but delegated, and that dangers in abrogating State jurisdiction in personal matter and substituting Federal jurisdiction therefore. Mrs. Owen's ultimate purpose is praiseworthy. There is no American interest that calls for greater care than the home, and the child. But there is room for suspicion that well intentioned efforts have already gone pretty far in the direction of lessening the control of the home over the child. It will be better for child life if the future shall favor it with a good deal more home life than is currently in practice. The United States is not a group of States created by central government. It is, and to carry on must continue to be, a Republic of Republics."

"Mrs. Owen's proposal will meet with stout opposition from the same sources that have opposed creation of a Department of Education and the original and continued operation of the Sheppard-Tower maternity act," asserts the DALLAS JOURNAL, while the ST. PAUL DISPATCH expresses opposition to a department "which would undoubtedly grow in authority, usurping gradually the prerogatives now reposing in the States and their political subdivisions in the field of education and child welfare." The LYNCHBURG ADVANCE holds that Mrs. Owen "would standardize all homes and all children, and make them conform to one pattern, just as the growing of wheat and the planting of cotton and the manufacture of many commodities are being made standard throughout the length and breadth of the country." That paper contends that "her idea is false to every tradition of American life."

The KANSAS CITY STAR voices the criticism: "There may be need for more federal activity on behalf of the home and the child, but there is no need for a new cabinet department for such activity. The services provided for a Department of home and child by Representative Owen already are given in other departments to considerable extent. Public sentiment is not disposed favorably to the creation of new departments, with their added cost."

"If we want centralization vastly increased and more Federal government nosing into our business and life, Mrs. Owen has pointed the way," advises the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS.

TEA AND TOAST

Just sit me down to toast and tea
 And have the jam nearby.
 With that no epicure could be
 A happier man than I.
 What if the cook has gone away
 And left the pantry bare?
 'Tis good to be alone, I say
 And sup on simple fare.

I'll put the kettle on the fire,
 And I'll connect the toaster wire
 And place the chairs about
 Let those who will seek banquet food
 It has no lure for me
 On Sunday night I'm in the mood
 For toast and jam and tea.

On Sunday night I want no fuss,
 The kitchen board will do.
 One teapot for the two of us
 With you to pour the brew.
 Of all the meals I like the most
 Are those when we alone may sit
 And sup on tea and toast.

Come, sit you down. We'll be as gay
 As once we used to be
 Before we had a cook to pay
 To brew our cup of tea.
 Though many a fancy meal we've known
 Still simplest I am
 When you and I may sup alone
 On toast and tea and jam.

Economic Future Is Assured, Says President Hoover

Cooperation And Team-Play Between Capital And Labor Has Saved Nation

OUTLOOK BRIGHTER FOR PROSPERITY

Hoover's Address Well Received By Labor Federation In Annual Convention

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Out of the crucible of the present business depression there has arisen a new basis of cooperation and team-play between capital and labor and government that has successfully weathered the storm and brightened the whole outlook for the economic future, President Hoover declared Monday in an address to the fiftieth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

For the first time in a century of recurrent depressions, Mr. Hoover said, the present slump has been all free from a bitter industrial conflict. For bringing about this condition of affairs, he had equally high praise for the leadership of industry, in labor, and in government.

new industrial era which can only result in increasing standards of living.

"We ought not forget," he said "that this is something new in the world's economic life, and there are, of course, some who do not yet believe. It is as far apart as they poles from the teachings of the economists of 100 years ago."

Nevertheless, the President declared that from this new economic basis and the new-found sense of cooperation between employer and employee "America is making more progress toward security, better living, and more hours of leisure than these countries which are seeking to continue old conceptions of the wage, and patch up the old system with doles of various kinds which limit the independence of man."

Only One Black Spot
There is still one black spot in the American industrial set-up," the President said. He referred to the bituminous coal industry.

After reviewing the conditions which have brought about the situation in the soft-coal fields, over production, too many mines and too much competition, as well as labor disturbances, he said:

"All these conditions have culminated in a demoralization of the industry and a depth of human misery in some sections which is wholly out of place in our American system."

The key to solution seems to me to lie in reduction of this destructive competition. It certainly is not the purpose of our competitive system that it should produce a competition that destroys stability in an industry and reduces to poverty all those within it.

"If our regulatory laws are at fault they should be corrected."

But the greatest problem, he said, is one of general stability and in the experience of this depression he found much to comfort.

"The demonstration of nation-wide cooperation and team-play and the absence of conflict during this depression," he concluded, "have increased the stability and wholesome-ness of our industrial and social structure."

When Soda Fails To Help Your Stomach

When indigestion comes—gas, sourness, heartburn and after-eating pains—many people depend for relief on soda.

This works well for a time, but continued frequent use often shows less and less benefit. The stomach needs a change.

Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets—gives instant relief from acid-caused digestive pain the very minute it hits your stomach. No stomach relief could be faster, surer, safer or more dependable. Ask any good druggist for genuine Bisurated Magnesia and learn what real stomach comfort can mean.

In one they called at a museum in which there was a large collection of birds, butterflies, minerals, old Chinese and Japanese vases, valuable paintings works of some of the masters besides a hundred or so other Indian relics.

Amie McPerson's widely talked of temple of worship was not passed up when Mr. and Mrs. Hinkson went through Los Angeles. They report the building itself as an outstanding work of art. Inside, the ceiling of the immense auditorium is blue with stars of light radiating through. The temple choir is angelic and their music is most inspiring. Another

Scout Delegates Return To City

Plans Of Spring Conference
Of Girl Scouts Discussed
At Convention

ENGLISH WOMAN
MAY COME HERE

Miss Nance Pugh, director of New Castle Girl Scouts, Miss Elizabeth Reis, commissioner, Mrs. W. H. Hanger, of the educational committee and Mrs. Herbert Christman, leader, have returned to New Castle after spending the past ten days at the national Girl Scout convention at Indianapolis.

At a meeting of the delegates from the region in which New Castle is included, plans for the Spring regional conference were discussed. This conference will be held in New Castle on May 11 and 12, with a training course of several days preceding. No definite arrangements were made, according to the director. Definite plans will be in charge of a regional committee and will be made sometime in the near future.

It was decided last April at the 11th annual conference of Region 3, to hold the spring conference in New Castle. This will be the first time that New Castle, the convention city, has been honored by such an important meeting of Girl Scouts, and elaborate plans will be made to receive the large delegation.

Miss Adelaide Werner, regional director, whose headquarters are in Harrisburg, will come to New Castle next week and it is probable that some plans for the Spring conference will be made at that time.

During the first four days, the local delegates attended council training in charge of Mrs. Frederick Edey, at Camp Dellwood, the Indianapolis Girl Scout camp. The school was under the instruction of national executives, one of whom was Miss Joyce Wolton, of England, chief trainer for the guides at Foxley, England, one of the international camps.

Miss Wolton is a capable instructor and of a charming personality. Miss Pugh, the local director, hopes to have Miss Wolton be present at the regional conference in New Castle.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, honorary president, was present for two days and made some very interesting talks. The local delegates attended a reception to Mrs. Hoover given at the country club.

Although plans had been made for 400 delegates, twice that many attended the convention. Hotel Lincoln was headquarters. Among the speakers was the poet, Vachel Lindsey, Dr. William Vinal, professor of nature education of Western Reserve University, Edith Bollinger Price, the well known authoress.

Mrs. Frederick Edey was elected the new president and the next convention will be held in Buffalo, N. Y.

Peter's Adventures

BUSINESS GOING ON AS USUAL!

Peter watched the young Ants one after another, break out of their sleeping quarters in their tightly-spun cocoons, and he was glad he was not a Nurse Ant. They had to work so hard. And there was one thing in particular that arrested the boy's attention—the attitude of the brand new Ants. They didn't act like youngsters at all. They grew up under his very eyes. To be sure for a moment or so after their coming into the world, the youngsters stood quite still gaping, somewhat stupidly about them. But in a very short while they came to their senses and began to take notice of everything going on.

The nursery was a busy place. A group of Carpenter Ants were patching a leak in the ceiling with bits of leaves and straw. Sentinel Ants were standing on guard in the doorway. Nurse Ants were hustling back and forth among the pile of cocoons making life easy for their little charges. As Peter's gaze followed that of the youngsters he saw a company of Ants march past the sentinels bearing black things in their mouths—things that looked as much like apple seeds as anything he could think of. The company of Ants came bringing gifts to the nurses. And the nurses scarcely waited to thank them for the seeds, but grabbed them and at once fell to eating. My, my, but they were hungry!

All this and much more the young Ants saw, and fell to thinking. And in a twinkling of an eye their young minds were made up. This one scampered off to join the group of carpenters, that one scuttled over to where the sentinels stood. Another ran to the nurses. A fourth took her stand by the apple seed bearers.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out! Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduce inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

COAL NEWS
A LAST MINUTE WARNING
Domestic Coal represents the cream of the country's coal production. The slack and fines are consumed by the manufacturing industry. For every ton of domestic coal produced there are three tons of slack and fines which are used by the great manufacturing industry.

When the primary industrial market falls off, the supply of domestic coal is automatically curtailed. In view of the fact that industrial activity is now but 70 per cent normal, this means a corresponding decrease in first-class domestic coal production.

With the domestic demand about to go into its seasonal high peak, the inevitable result will be an increase in the price of coal in the near future.

But there is yet time to avail yourself of the present low prices if you act NOW. But let us repeat—NOW IS THE TIME.

Y EMPLOYMENT BUREAU SEEKING ODD JOBS HERE

Adding to his appeal published in The News Monday that employers who have odd jobs to offer communicate with him, R. L. Meermans, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. said today that it is probable some employers here are not aware of the "Y" as a state employment branch of the State Department of Labor and Industry.

Following his statement of Monday for employers to make themselves known, Meermans was delayed by applicants for odd jobs.

As an example of the co-operation which may be had when employers announce their intention to alleviate the condition of unemployment, Meermans pointed to one instance of quick job placing. Late Monday afternoon a person who had a painting job to be done read the announcement. At about the same time a painter out of work also read The News. A short time later the "wires were connected" and the particular job filled.

Meermans said today: "Many of the job hunters came to the 'Y' and said they did not know we operate a state employment office here. It is possible that many employers of the city are also unaware that this free agency exists in our city. For that reason we do not receive as many calls for laborers as we do for jobs."

Employers of labor are urged by the general secretary to telephone the "Y" when a job is available. The phone number is 215. At the present time Meermans said, there are scores of applicants for miscellaneous jobs, laborers, office clerks and other work.

Irene And Dague Appeal May Come Up On Wednesday

Believed Supreme Court Will Reach Case Tomorrow Or Thursday

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—Arguments in the new trial appeal of Irene Schroeder, Pennsylvania's blond "gun woman," and her alleged lover, Glenn Dague, under death sentence for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul of the State highway patrol, probably will be heard before the Pennsylvania supreme court tomorrow.

Irene and Dague are appealing to the supreme court for a reversal of the Lawrence county court's decision refusing the new trial following their conviction of Paul's murder.

It was believed that the case will either be listed on tomorrow's docket or at the latest on Thursday's list. Attorneys for Irene are making a desperate eleventh hour attempt to save the blond bandit from the electric chair and will attempt to show that the lower court erred in refusing a new trial, the appeal for which was based on various alleged technical legal mistakes during the original trial.

Possibility that the supreme court will hand down a per curiam order rather than wait until the January term in Philadelphia before making a decision was also being discussed in court circles today. Irene's original trial was held in March last and it was thought possible the supreme court may not wish to delay the next step in the case by waiting until the regular session before handing down a decision.

Adjusting Loss On Blair Plant

Expected That Settlement Will Be Reached In Short Time

In his office near the ruins of what was formerly the main mill of the Blair Strip Steel Company, Butler avenue extension, George D. Blair, president of the plant that suffered in Wednesday morning's fire losses which Blair said will not exceed $350,000, this morning was in conference with insurance officials.

In the office of local agents for the insurance company, it was learned that the adjustment for the huge loss in the mill blaze had not yet been completed.

It is probable that salvage work will commence when an adjustment has been reached with the insurance company. What machinery and mill supplies are still usable will be utilized in the new plant, while the ruined equipment will be junked.

Representatives of the Penn-Ohio System meter department were salvaging meters from the ruins.

All was still today in the new mill building which was slightly damaged by the Wednesday morning fire. With the exception of some insurance adjusters who inspected the debris of the conflagration the roofless property which felt the fire most empty.

It was said by Blair after the fire that the new mill would be in operation within 30 days. The company has arranged to take care of its immediate commitments to customers with a neighboring cold rolled strip steel mill while preparations are made here to start the new plant in operation. The new plant was built about a year ago and sustained some damage to its roof in the Wednesday fire.

Schools Not To Be Used For Promoting Private Instruction In Music

Using the public schools as a means of promoting private instruction in music or in any other subject was set down rather sternly Monday evening by the New Castle school board when the matter came before the special session of the board. The incident out of which grew the decision of the board created a rather heated half hour in which members of the board expressed their feelings in the matter. The matter was opened when Joseph P. Replogle, director of music for the senior high school, appeared before the board and explained that if the schools were to continue to have high class bands and orchestras that some attention must be paid to instruction of pupils in the various instruments. This he explained was not possible in the school schedule.

Introduces Fiddlette.
Mr. Replogle stated that the inventor of the "fiddlette", a new instrument, had called and had given a demonstration of the instrument. This, he said, was in the nature of a cheaply constructed violin, not the size of a regular violin, but was valuable in giving students rudimentary instruction in playing the violin. Follow this demonstration, Mr. Replogle said, he had discussed the matter with James Callahan, a violin instructor of this city, and Mr. Callahan had sent through the schools pamphlets describing the "fiddlette" and blanks upon which the students could subscribe to lessons, the entire cost to be $6.50, payable 75 cents at organization and the balance at 25 cents per week, or $6 in cash. Following the explanation Mr. Hyde said: "It seems to me that any radical departure in policy should come before the school board before any action is taken by a department head." Mr. McIlvenny: "I agree with that. This board should be asked whether or not such things should be allowed." Mr. Replogle then explained that he did not wish to take the time of the board in going over the matter when it was first introduced, as he felt that it was something which was a good thing, and had the endorsement of other schools. He then cited a number of schools that had endorsed the idea.

Said Mr. Hyde: "I'm pretty sure about this whole thing. I do not know anything about this instrument, neither do I know anybody who is for it or against it, nor do I care. As a school director I insist upon reserving my right to pass upon any matters."

"Danderine" dissolves the Crust of Dandruff

So Easy to Use! It Soothes, Tones Scalp; Gives New Life to Hair!

Dandruff is unsightly. And what is worse, it steals life itself from the hair; makes it dull, brittle, scraggy; starts it to falling out; makes you gray before your time.

Why tolerate this? There's no use when you can get "Danderine" from any drugstore for just a few cents.

Danderine is no experiment. It has proven its merit by years of use and popularity. It dissolves the crust of dandruff in a hurry. The scalp is cleansed, soothed and toned by the first application. Excess oil is removed from the hair; its own natural color is brought out marvelously; it is soon sparkling with new life and lustre. Used consistently, Danderine keeps the scalp in the pink of condition; encourages the hair to grow long, thick, more youthful looking.

Five million bottles used a year shows Danderine's popularity. And you won't wonder at this when you learn its easy use and see how quickly it gives health to the scalp and vital and youthful appearance to the hair.

Sansheen* (with Slendo** heel)—Kayser's lovely new dull hose—makes it possible for you to look your smartest for every occasion. Those dainty wisps of dull beauty look as fragile as sprite's wings. Yet their marvelous "Sansheen" twist of thread makes them wear as if long life were their only claim to fame. In the new Fall colors—chiffon, $1.65; extra fine gauge chiffon, $1.95. All other Kayser Hosiery has been given new low prices—some as low as $1.25.

KAYSER UNDERTHINGS

Don't argue with Paris—See Leatherettes*! When Paris says "Four styles in gloves," you simply must have four styles. Kayser "Leatherettes" solve that! And they wash so easily and so beautifully that you need never add cleaner's bills to their original small cost. $1 and up.

Dirigibles Safest Germans Declare In Spite Of Disaster

Germany Appalled At Air Tragedy Of British
Dirigible

Experts Agree That Tests
Have Proven That Airships Are Safest For Travel

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—Although profoundly shocked by the terrible tragedy which draped the once proud British dirigible R-101 in a mass of tangled wreckage on the side of a French hill, German aeronautical experts Monday refused to relinquish their faith in the practicability of the lighter-than-air ship for long-distance passenger transportation. The tragic crash of the R-101 and its appalling death toll left the leading German airmen and constructors of aircraft momentarily breathless, but from most of them today came calm assurance that the career of the dirigible as a successful means of speedy transportation did not bury itself forever beneath the smoking wreckage of the R-101 at Beauvais. Ernst Brandenburg, German air minister who has charge of the government subsidies administered to the German airship Graf Zeppelin, made it clear the British catastrophe would not affect this nation's plans for dirigible development. Arriving at Friedrichshafen this morning after a tour over Germany aboard the Graf, Dr. Eckener soon dispelled any doubts as to his attitude toward dirigibles in an interview with International News Service.

Clendening Lauds Find Of New Food

Vegetable Discoverer Is Benefactor, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Who ever introduces a new vegetable confers an inestimable boon on his fellows. Personally, I do not care who is president or who writes the nation's songs, so long as there are a few good vegetable introducers at work in the highways and byways. Within about the last four years broccoli seems to me the most distinguished newcomer. So far as I can remember it was not generally used before. My acquaintance with it began then, and about that period I had the distinction of presenting it for the first time to that distinguished epicure, H. L. Mencken. Like all men of sense, he is fond not only of the delicate inner stalk, but also the outside leaves. The vegetable should be prepared for eating by being boiled in salt water for twenty minutes to half an hour, or until it is evidently tender when you stick a pin in it. Some authorities prefer it with Hollandaise or mayonnaise dressing, others equally particular say it should be eaten without sauce of any kind. From that time the morning stars sang together in the dawn days of creation, roast duck and broccoli were intended to be chewed together in the human mouth.

The great virtues of broccoli, from the standpoint of the science of nutrition, is first its high pigment content. Pigment is a necessary part of the human dietary, especially in infancy. The coloring of the red blood cells comes from pigment in the food. This is the reason for the popularity of spinach and carrots with children's doctors. The trouble with most pigment-containing vegetables is their utter insipidity. Personally I should exactly as soon eat a mouthful of cotton as either carrots or spinach. Broccoli has the advantage that it does taste like something. It tastes like a delicate virgin, inexperienced cabbage, just starting out in the world.

But the subject is so fascinating it will require another article.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendening, care of this paper. ## In Appreciation

DURING the days that we held our open house, many persons—more even than we had hoped—availed themselves of the privilege of going through our remodeled and refurbished mortuary. Many comments upon the completeness, attractiveness, and homeliness of the place were received, and to us these friendly expressions and kindly remarks were highly gratifying. We feel certain now that our plans were sound, and that they were appropriately carried out.

With the memory of our successful open house before us, it will be easier to carry on, and to keep alive the ideals that have been responsible for our progress. We wish to thank all those who called at our establishment, and to assure them that we appreciate their courtesy and encouraging comments.

New Scientists Find Restless Sleepers Are Really Healthy!

Although patients' restlessness in New Castle hospitals have often been held as an indication of the state of illness or nervousness, surprising facts about sleeping habits of persons have proven that healthy sleepers are really restless.

A tramp who gets a free night's lodging in a cell at police headquarters may sleep as still as a "log", but that fact does not mean that he is in good condition. On the contrary, if the latest scientific research reports are considered, the sleeper in the cell may be ailing. And again, a tot at the Margaret Henry Home, restless, changing his position in bed many times and causing other sleepless nights, may be in good health.

The surprising facts about sleeping habits of healthy persons have been revealed in a study by three investigators at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh, described in Hygiea, the magazine of the American Medical Association.

With the aid of the motion picture camera the observers studied the postures assumed during an average night's sleep by 150 persons. They found that a healthy sleeper changes his position between 20 and 45 times in a typical night of eight hours.

Strange as it may seem all the positions held for any length of time are contorted: the spinal column is always curved laterally, usually bowed backward and twisted. None of them indicated anything like the complete relaxation that has always been supposed to be best for sleeping.

ing as the time on a concrete berm at the side of the road, was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace C. L. Zedaker of New Bedford Monday afternoon on the charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Following the hearing he was held for the December term of court.

George Hardesty of Youngstown, O., arrested at the same time and in connection with the same incident, was also charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and pleaded guilty when taken before Justice of the Peace C. L. Zedaker following his arrest. He will be sentenced in the near future by the Lawrence county court.

It appears that both men had cars and had been operating them, and that Hardesty was with Shields when the latter wrecked the car he was operating. The accident occurred about a mile east of New Bedford.

Supreme Court Hears Arguments In Wasson Case

Former Judge Henry Wasson Appeals From Disbarment Recommendation

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—The supreme court of Pennsylvania today was to sit in judgment on the appeal of former Judge Henry G. Wasson from the disbarment recommendation of the board of governors of the Pennsylvania bar.

Wasson's disbarment recommendation followed the hearing of charges made by Martin K. and Blanche Hubbard, sisters of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson, widow of the late Frederick Davidson, former president of the Union Drawn Steel Company of Beaver Falls.

When Mrs. Davidson was adjudged mentally incompetent to handle her estate of $3,000,000 several years ago Judge Wasson and Attorney George H. Calvert were appointed a committee for the widow.

Their alleged mismanagement of the estate was climaxed by the disbarment action. The case of Calvert, who suffered a nervous breakdown after the action was brought, has not been pressed.

Chief Standing Master John Hampton Barnes of Philadelphia was in Pittsburgh today to argue the case.

Total Registration In New Castle 7558

Complete Returns From All Districts Received At Commissioner's Office

Complete registration returns for the City of New Castle, received at the county commissioners office, show that the total registered vote in the city is 7558. This is about half of the number eligible to register, and indicates extremely apathy toward the coming election.

New Castle is not alone in the matter of a low registration. Reports from neighboring cities, Sharon, Beaver Falls and Butler show that only half of the regular vote has been registered. The same will hold good in a majority of cities throughout the state. Indications are that the vote to be cast at the November election will be the lightest in some years.

In the country districts and boroughs, where registering is done by the registering assessors, the registration is about the same as last year.

The service of the Groton Avenue Methodist church Wednesday evening will be of a special nature, in that it will be a rally prayer service for the congregation and it is expected the meeting room will be taxed to capacity.

Wife Very Cruel! Says Joe Bogac

Claims She Beat Him, Locked Him Out, And Threatens His Life

Joe Bogac's second marriage has not proved to be the success pictured in his dreams, according to an application for divorce filed at the probate court this morning, in which he gives his reasons why a separation from his wife Mary Bogac, would be to his liking.

He says that Mary has treated him with great cruelty. Among the acts specifically set forth are blows, profane and indecent language, threats to take his life and threats to take the lives of his children by a former marriage.

He also alleges that his wife has driven him out of the house in all kinds of weather and has locked him out. He also claims that she has refused to prepare his meals or pack his suitcase, that she is extravagant and runs into debt. Further that she treats him scornfully in the presence of others and refuses to allow him to talk with other people.

There are several other charges, even of a graver nature.

SUGAR SUPPLIES CALORIES AT THE LOWEST PRICE

Few Foods Return Such High Caloric Value for the Money

Sugar is an inexpensive food.
Compared with butter, bacon,
macaroni, bread, meats, milk,
green vegetables and fresh fruits, sugar supplies the system with far more calories for each cent spent than the same amount expended on any of the rest of the products named.

This fact is significant because the average system requires approximately 4000 calories daily. Of this amount, sixty per cent should be derived from the carbohydrate group of foods to which sugar belongs.

To get the full value of sugar the housewife should consider it in relation to all the foods she chooses for her table. The most inexpensive balanced meal can be made satisfying and complete by a sweet dessert. Canned vegetables, as well as fresh ones, can be much improved, in taste appeal if a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is added while they are cooking. Breakfast cereals and stewed dried fruits have added goodness when sugar is added.

Doctors and dietitians approve the use of sugar in making essential foods tasty. For these foods contain vitamins, minerals and roughage—all of which are needed by the system. Good food promotes good health. The Super Institute.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—From the holy hollows of Staten Island to the sacred precincts of the Bronx the itinerant peddler plies his rancorous trade along every thoroughfare save one. Fifth avenue is sacred ground.

They're fussy on the Rue de la Quince. The Merchant Moguls there, have made the—the most magnificent mart on the face of earth; and if they can help it, nobody is going to come along and mar its pristine glory.

IDEAL SHOPPING CENTER.
The merchant prices on Roo Num-very, very seriously. Some folks think they take them more seriously than the importance of this world justifies. Be that as it may, there's the fact.

As a shopping center it certainly is unique. London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, not one of them can boast of a shopping district that in any way approaches the mile strip that runs north along Fifth avenue from 34th St.

The resources of every nook and corner of the earth are taxed to minister to the ever varying requisitions of the Fifth Avenue apirice.

FOR POOR AND RICH.
The beautiful part of it all resides in the fact that this unique district flourishes with no limitation in the matter of price.

You may saunter over to Roo Number Five, with a nickel in your jeans, and you'll find some capable salesman there to take it away from you in genteel and satisfying fashion. And you can cut loose with ten thousand bucks; and when you come away you won't have made a ripple on its daz-

SOME LINE DRAWN.
Thus there today old lady Childs squats forlornly in F. W. Woolworth and the custodians of the integrity of the Bean and the Bead are as firmly ensconced as any of the Early Settlers.

But the line has to be drawn somewhere; and it has been tightly yanked across the path of the itinerant peddler.

You can step into Joe Duven's place and part with a half a million for the canvas of an old master.

If you don't want to squander half a million, Woolworth will supply you with a lithographed copy of the same painting for a dime.

You pay your money in any of those Sap Salons—and you takes your choice.

But picture Mr. Tiffany selling Mrs.
Astor a hundred thousand-dollar pearl necklace and looking out the window to discover Agile Ike, out on the curb-a buck an' a hawf.

First Session Of Institute Is Held On Monday

W. W. E. Wenner And Dr.
L. H. Beeler Speak At Opening Of Teacher's Institute

J. W. YODER IS
MUSIC DIRECTOR

Two excellent instructors, Dr. W. E. Wenner, superintendent of schools, Ashtabula, O., and Dr. L. H. Beeler, department of history, Grove City College, gave addresses in front of an audience of over 300 school teachers of Lawrence county Monday afternoon in the Union high school auditorium.

It was the first session of the 1930 teachers' institute and was held by these well known educators. It was not the first time that the two men have appeared before people of this county. Dr. Wenner taught here for several years. He received his first experience in high school teaching in New Wilmington. Dr. Beeler has addressed the county teachers several times before.

Following devotionals by Rev. W. J. Engle of Bessemer and music by the institute, led by J. W. Yoder of Huntingdon, Pa., Lawrence County Superintendent of Schools John C. Sylling introduced Dr. Wenner.

"Education Today" was the subject of Dr. Wenner's address. Dr. Wenner has the knack of explaining the points he wishes to bring out clearly and presents them in an original and interesting way.

He stated that there should be a perpetual regeneration of society, immortality of learning and growth everlasting. He explained to his audience the gross importance of the school teacher's job—the job of educating the child in life, teaching vision, contact with reality, participation in life and achievement.

"Everything is improving. Everything has to improve. It is not true that the young people of the day have gone by had to battle with more hardships in order to live. Young people of today battle with many more complexities than those of years ago. True, improvements are constantly being made to help them achieve their goal—splendid schools, etc., but the bulk of the burden falls on the shoulders of the teachers. It is up to them to instruct the pupils in how to battle the democratic and social challenges of the age. Teachers of today have a Herculean task, as compared to yesterday, and they are getting satisfactory results," according to Dr. Wenner.

Dr. Wenner spoke of many improvements in the educational system. He remarked that the day is almost here when one-room school houses will be unheard of things.

Even the great leaders of today do not know what should be the content of education. Methods, goals are changing constantly and the leaders are studying to find out more and more in order to meet modern challenges. He said that education must provide for the four changes in a human mind—position, opposition, composition and a stepping forth into the world. He also said that education must provide for the four classes of children—those who are physically and mentally fit, those who are physically unfit and mentally fit, those who are physically fit and mentally unfit, and those who are both physically and mentally unfit.

Dr. Wenner pointed out that there are four classes of teachers: those who don't know and don't care, those who don't know but do care, those who do know but are indifferent and cynical, and those who know and have understanding and sympathy.

It is the duty of the school, Dr. Wenner stated, to turn out orderly and intelligent thinkers—thinkers under any circumstances, to teach them to keep ahead of machines; that is, to not let machines think for them, to teach them to make their own decisions, to face the facts, to have a strong sense of responsibility, self-efficiency and to use their leisure the right ways.

After Dr. Wenner's address Superintendent Sylling dismissed institute for a 15-minute period. The teachers and visitors inspected the exhibition rooms and chatted with acquaintances until the class was called to order at 2:45 p. m.

J. W. Yoder won popularity in the institute instantly by his enthusiastic and competent directing of songs. Mr. Yoder is also a composer and a number of the songs he himself wrote were sung by the institute class. A splendid orchestra, composed of the music supervisors from the county, was greatly appreciated. Miss Esther Herberling of Portersville was accompanist.

Dr. L. H. Beeler was the last speaker of the afternoon. His subject was "Our Job", and the facts he stressed and the illustrations he gave were most interesting.
He said that progress in education depends not in better buildings, not in better books, but in the hopeful signs of rising interests in the hearts and minds of the teachers. Teaching today is as necessary as any other task to face—it is essential to hold up the ideals of the nation. Wipe out the schools and America would be bereft of the very foundation upon which it stands.
Superintendent Sylling announced at the conclusion of Dr. Beeler's talk that the musical supervisors of the county schools would meet in room 202 at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Keep Wholly Calm In Helping Child

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
SUPPOSE YOUR child finds arithmetic harder than any other subject. The younger he is the more you will be able to help him, though it should never be too late to render whole-some aid, if you are calm and sympathetic.

In this subject I am tremendously interested, for I devoted a number of years to research in the field of learning and teaching of arithmetic, having published numerous investigations and texts thereon. But so far as I am able to discover, nobody really knows a great deal about the matter. Some have, however, hit upon a few principles and devices which seem to be successful. There are now available practical and inexpensive self-helps in the form of printed cards, books, and pamphlets designed to aid the child to help himself find his own difficulties, attack them rather effectively, reduce the error habit, and train himself in habits of precision.

Many book stores and department stores now make such materials available, and your librarian or school principal could give you the names of some publishers of this kind of materials.
Some parents are so skillful and clever as to improvise exercises with their children which prove more effective, no doubt, than any printed matter.

For the parent who tries to help his child that has difficulty with arithmetic, there are some common sense principles worth considering. First, keep wholly calm and sympathetic. The moment you find your breathing growing a little catchy or irregular through annoyance at the child's errors or difficulties, walk away from him. You are not fit then to be in his presence. Avoid the very appearance of evil, of being a nuisance to him.

Find out whether the child knows the simple number facts like 8 plus 9 equals 17, 13 minus 6 equals 7, 8 times 4 equals 32, 36 divided by 9 equals 4. No matter in what grade he is working he cannot succeed in number work involving any of these factors unless he knows them accurately and without doubt, or needs not to pause to count or calculate. If, for instance, it is the addition or subtraction facts he needs, but does not know, find out what the combinations are he must learn. Only a hundred of each of them, including the zeros. Don't have him attack both groups in an evening.

But he may be in the fifth grade! Very well; don't get excited. Don't condemn him for not knowing them. Make him feel it is no disgrace. Calmly lead him to see that he needs to know them before he can go on comfortably and succeed. Prove to him that you are going to help make him happier concerning his arithmetic.

Suppose you discover that he knows such facts as 7 plus 2 equals 9, or 4 plus 3 equals 7, but always pauses several moments before answering to 8 plus 6 equals, or to 7 plus 9 equals. Quietly ask him to tell you how he found the answer to the latter two. Ninety-nine chances to a hundred you will discover that he counts them out in his mind. Poor child! All these years he has been wasting his time worrying over this simple little difficulty which easily can be corrected.

Cut out of heavy paper or light cardboard sections about four by six inches. Use each for a number fact not known by the child. Write, for example, on one side, 9 plus 8 equals 17, the 9 with 8 under it. Under that draw a line, under which put 17. This is the study side. On the other side of this card write the same, with 17 omitted. This is the testing side.

Have him look at the study side repeating the whole combination over and over until he is sure he knows it; then turn to the testing side to see if he can supply the missing number. Persuade him to attack only a few of these cards at a sitting and never to guess at the answer. He will want to hurry and to guess. He has been accustomed to haphazard methods of work.
If he tells you he must hurry at school just assure him that when he works for you he can feel as if he has a million years, provided he will work with care.

Antonio Spends Spare Time Drawing Words In Fine, Lacy-Like Print

When Antonio Gallo, of the New Castle-New Wilmington road, was fourteen years of age and lived in Campofelice, Sicily, he amazed his school teacher, or "inspector" when he displayed several sheets of fancy printing he had done in his spare time.

"No! You found them somewhere!" the inspector expostulated. But Antonio just smiled gratefully. He knew that he had drawn them all by himself and he was proud of his writing.

Antonio is 60 years old now and for the past 33 years he has lived in America—most of that time right here in Lawrence county. But he has not forgotten how to make the fancy, fine lacy writing that he learned in the old country, and during his spare time, Antonio can be seen working with a pen and pencil, producing amazingly beautiful appearing letters.

Two months ago, Mr. Gallo sent some of his writings to Herbert Hoover, president of the United States. And it is safe to say that the President is pleased with the sample of fairly-like, coveyby printing representative of tedious hours of work on the part of Antonio.

Noteworthy among the unemployed is grammar.

And their colors? Black, black, and still more black, of course. (Practically every smart woman seems determined to have at least one black dress this winter!) ## Intensive Hunt For Killers Is Continued Today

License Plates And Cancelled Checks New Clues In North Braddock

FOUR MOWED DOWN BY MACHINE GUN

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—License plates from the killers abandoned car and cancelled checks linking their victims with local bootlegging circles were clues uncovered by state police and county detectives as they pressed their search today for the murders who mowed down three men and a woman in a Braddock fruit store last Saturday.

As detectives pressed their search for "Arthur Lamont of the East End", to whom the license plates were issued, friends and relatives prepared to bury the latest victims of local gang and racketeering warfare.

Funeral arrangements were completed today for the victims: Mrs. Mary Lobianco, 22, an expectant mother; Joseph Lobianco, 42, her husband; Carmen Lobianco, 37, his brother; and Louis T. Tomaino, 69, a casual customer in the store who was shot down by the killers.

Detectives refused to divulge the names of payees on cancelled checks which they are tracing. These checks, signed by members of the Lobianco family, form a definite link with local bootlegging kings and extortionists, police say.

Detectives expressed the belief that a fictitious name may have been used to obtain the license plates.

Salus And Hall Support Hemphill

State Senator Announces His Refusal To Follow Pinchot Supporters

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—State Senator Samuel W. Salus today joined Councilman Charles B. Hall in his refusal to support Gifford Pinchot, the Republican gubernatorial nominee.

Hall, leader of the seventh ward and formerly president of the city council, bolted the party late yesterday announcing he would support John M. Hemphill, the Liberal-Democratic candidate for governor. He also resigned from the Republican city committee.

Salus, the leader of the fourth ward, followed in his wake today. And many other stalwart Republican chieftains here are expected to do the same within the next few days.

The bolt of Hall and Salus, both always bitterly antagonistic to Pinchot and his policies is looked upon in Republican circles here as indicative of what can be expected from most of the other 46 ward leaders. Not more than eight ward leaders are expected to support Pinchot wholeheartedly.

Hall's announcement of his refusal to support Pinchot came in a letter to James J. Hazlett, city chairman of the Republican party. He predicted that Hemphill would carry Philadelphia by a majority of 250,000.

Ethel Anderson, above, 25, and weighing 286 pounds, happened to be in the Jackson, Miss., jail when B. D. Robinson, 70, and without legs, appeared on the scene. It was love at first sight. Robinson paid her fees, obtained Ethel's release and then they were married. Eight hours later the bride boarded a bus for New Orleans, declaring she wanted to see the world. "I want her back," wails the aged Romeo, who alleges she took his watch. Ethel claims she threw that away because it wouldn't run.

President—C. C. Coulthard, Divisional Superintendent of Transportation.
Vice President—Earl C. Ruby, Divisional Line Superintendent.

Secretary—L. J. Lewis, Chief Clerk
Treasurer—E. Crawford, Assistant Cashier.

Mr. Coulthard responded and thanked the members for the honor conferred on him and outlined a program of the activities of the club during the fall and winter months. An interesting presentation followed—to the winner and runner-up in the recent Golf Tournament sponsored by the New Castle Office of the Pennsylvania Power Company—C. C. Coulthard, Divisional Superintendent of Transportation, receiving the first prize, a loving cup, and T. G. Lewis, Service Representative, the runner-up, a set of golf clubs. H. P. Meehan, lamp salesman, presented the awards to the winners.

To Use High School Stadium For Game On November 1, Board Agrees

New Castle football fans will get the opportunity of seeing college football on November 1st. On Monday evening at the special session of the board permission was granted for the staging of the Thiel-W. & J. football game on Taggart field. The scheduled game of New Castle high school with Rochester high school will be played on Friday evening, Oct. 31st, the Rochester school authorities having agreed to the change.

The request for the college game was made Monday evening by City Solicitor Robert M. White and Attorney Ralph Cooper, alumnus of Washington and Jefferson. Speaking for the committee, Mr. White said that both W. & J. and Thiel felt that they would like to have their teams play here, not so much for the purpose of staging a football game as it was to bring the people of New Castle in closer contact with the schools. He said that they would agree to whatever terms and conditions the board would set down.

A. C. Hyde, a board member, and a member of the athletic council, said that the matter had come before the athletic council and the council felt that it was a matter for the board to decide. After some discussion the board voted unanimously to permit the game to be held.

Associated Charities Have Had Busy Year

During the year which closed October 1, the Associated Charities experienced one of the busiest periods in their history.

Because of the industrial depression which has been felt locally as well as nationally, the association was called on for more assistance than normally, and greater care had to be exercised in the disposition of the funds allotted to the organization under the Community Chest.

The Community Chest Round Table, were questions affecting the giving of assistance by all organizations is discussed met in the rooms of the Associated Charities each Thursday at 1 o'clock with a good attendance.

The work of the Associated Charities is general in scope, providing for the care of all families in the city, except in the case of ex-service men. This work is also shared by the Salvation Army, and the weekly discussion at the Round Table prevents duplication of assistance.

During the year, many pitiful cases were brought to the attention of the Associated Charities, and assistance was rendered by the organization.

Personal investigations were made in 113 cases where appeals for assistance was asked, and in addition, 1814 business and personal telephone calls were made. Letters were written in 50 cases to agencies outside the city.

During the year, 184 baskets of groceries were given out from the office of the Associated Charities, while 45 orders for groceries were given out local dealers. In addition, 13 sacks of flour were delivered, and 45 loaves of bread given out. Orders were given for 77 tons of coal, two months rent was paid where families faced eviction; two bushels of potatoes were bought for a man who wished to help himself by planting a garden; and garden seeds were purchased for two other families. Medicine was purchased for three families, where there was illness in the family.

In addition to this, the following garments were given out:

Second hand clothing, including: coats, hats, shoes and underwear, 647
New petticoats, 16
Baby blankets, 16
Quilts, 7
Pillow cases, 12

Suits	6
Pairs new trousers	41
Wash cloths	91
Towels	100
New garments for infants	1037
Suits new hose	499
Suits new underwear	294
Sweaters for boys and girls	1037
Waists for boys	104
Pairs new shoes	104
Pairs shoes repaired	7
New night gowns	29
Pairs new bloomers	134
New dresses	55

The above report which shows conclusively where the funds of the Associated Charities have gone, is a most complete one, and reveals the fact that a great amount of good has been accomplished by the organization during the year. This is how a portion of the money contributed by New Castle citizens during the past year, has been spent.

Watch For Banded Ducks This Season Warns Government

Birds At More Than 50 Stations Banded By Bureau Of Biological Survey

Sportsmen going afield this season to take daily and seasonal bags of wild ducks and other game birds may find occasionally a numbered aluminum band on one leg of a bird. Bird-banding cooperators of the bureau of biological survey of the U. S. department of agriculture, in advancing its studies of North American waterfowl, have banded game birds at more than 50 stations in the United States and Canada, from the Arctic regions south to Louisiana and Georgia and from Maine to California. The biological survey desires a report on every banded bird that is recovered and requests the cooperation of sportsmen.

The report should state the number printed on the band (including any series designation, such as A, B or C) and the date and locality where the bird was obtained. In return, the biological survey will tell the person rendering the report where and when the bird was banded, and send interesting information on the application of the banding method to bird study.

Bird banding, as conducted by the biological survey and its 1,700 co-operators, furnishes a means of obtaining information regarding conservation measures. The banding records of the bureau have furnished much information on hunting and conservation problems, such as showing the regions that are visited by particular concentrations of birds. The solution of these problems means much to the perpetuation of the sport of wild-fowling, and sportsmen are accordingly urged to examine the ducks and other wild fowl in their bags and report banded birds to the biological survey.

Should the police report chronicle the activities of those prone to fracture the law the city of New Castle is in fairly good condition as only 305 arrests with fines and forfeits of $807.95 for September.

Four were arrested for violating the Narcotics act, four for operating houses characterized in police parlance as "disorderly", three caught gambling were taken in tow and another arrested for felonious cutting. The majority of the arrests consisted of charges of breaking auto regulations and intoxication. Alertness resulted in 17 being arrested on a charge of being a "suspicious person."

Other arrests were made for disorderly conduct, stealing automobiles, visiting disorderly houses, selling without licenses, on warrants, begging and other minor charges.

Letter Of Appreciation From Sue Harvard

In a letter to Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle News, Sue Harvard Armstrong, soprano, who presented a benefit recital in the Cathedral on September 30th for the Jameson Memorial hospital expresses her appreciation at her reception here. The letter follows:

New York, October 4, 1930.

Mr. Fred L. Rentz, New Castle News, New Castle, Pa.
My Dear Mr. Rentz:—

Will you please—through the columns of your newspaper—express my hearty and sincere thanks to the people of New Castle for their interest and support in helping to make my recent concert appearance in my home town such a glorious success. An artist could not wish for a more perfect reception than was given to me by that great audience last Tuesday evening, September 30th, 1930. I felt instinctively that every one present was my friend and came because they wanted to hear me sing. Consequently I was inspired and therefore gave all I had to give—my best.

The committee in charge did me a great honor in creating so much atmosphere and in decorating the stage so beautifully. All this I assure you was an incentive to sing as I had never sung before.

The audience did its part in giving me a rousing reception and you, my good and loyal friend, did all in your power to give the event fine and dignified publicity. For all this I am important—I was honored by being asked to aid a very worthy and fine institution, the Jameson Memorial hospital of which New Castle is so proud, and I am proud to be able to say that New Castle is my home town. With kindest personal regards, believe me to be,

Yours very sincerely,
Signed
SUE HARVARD ARMSTRONG.

Athletics Take Series Lead As Foxx Hits Homer

Jimmy Foxx Breaks Up Great Hurling Duel With Homer To Give Macks 2 To 0 Win

TEAMS TRAVEL TO PHILADELPHIA

Grimes, Earnshaw And Grove Turn In Masterful Exhibitions On Pitching Mound

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—Jimmy Foxx, husky 23 year old first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, clouted a home run into the left field bleachers in the ninth inning of a thrilling pitchers battle Monday afternoon, scoring Mickey Cochrane who was on base, ahead of him and single-handed beat the St. Louis Cardinals in the fifth game of the World Series. The score was 2 to 0.

This terrific blast by Foxx beat Burleigh Grimes, St. Louis great "money pitcher," who had hurled eight consecutive scoreless innings. Grimes was pitching superbly, shooting his spit ball across the plate with terrific speed, when Foxx "got a hold" of a fast ball in the ninth.

Hits Into Bleachers:
Cochrane, the first Philadelphia player up in the ninth, had walked. Simmons was up next but the best Al could do was to send a tall fly to Gelbert in short left field. And then came Foxx. The first one Grimes pitched was a ball. Then Grimes cut the late with a fast ball and wham, Foxx propelled into the bleachers.

Not a sound came from the huge throng of St. Louis rooters as Foxx and Cochrane jogged around the bases. All afternoon the fans had been roaring themselves hoarse, ringing cowbells and imploring the Cardinals to start a rally.

Earnshaw Is Good
But the Cardinals could do nothing against the superb pitching of George Earnshaw and "Lefty" Grove, the two Philadelphia aces. Earnshaw pitched seven scoreless innings against St. Louis and was taken out of the game to allow a pinch hitter to bat for him in the eighth.

For seven innings, both Grimes and Earnshaw pitched unbeatable ball. Inning after inning went by without either club coming even close to scoring.

Then in the eighth, the A's got a "break" filled the bases with only one out. But lion-hearted Grimes held them scoreless in this inning, too. They couldn't break through with Grimes, standing out there in the semi-darkness grimly "working" on batter after batter.

That Wicked Eighth
With one down in the eighth, Haas laid down a perfect bunt down the third base line and beat Grimes' fast throw to first. A moment later Haas dashed for second and was safe when Frisch dropped, or at least, Umpire Geisel thought he dropped—Wilson's throw. Frisch threw the ball on the ground in disgust after the decision and he and other Cardinals protested vigorously. But the decision stood. Boley scratched a single off Grimes' glove. Grimes tried for a play on Haas at third but Haas slid into the bag safely.

Manager Connie Mack sent a pinch hitter up to bat for Earnshaw. The pinch batter was Al Moore and the Grimes walked him, filling the bases. The fans were on the edges of their seats as Bishop came up with the bases loaded. It was the dramatic moment of the game, up to that time. Grimes threw a ball close to Bishop and Mack claimed it brushed his sleeve. If he wanted to he could have left the ball hit him.

Bases Filled
But the instinct of self-preservation led him to pull away. Bishop then forced Haas at the plate on an easy play, Bottomley to Wilson.

Still the bases were filled. But, now that two were out the fans breathed easier. Dykes hit a low bounding ball to Gelbert who came in on it fast and threw to Frisch at second, forcing Bishop and ending the inning as the crowd went wild.

Grove went into the box for the A's and held the Cardinals scoreless in the eighth and ninth innings and was credited with the victory.

Foxx's blow was a long high ball into the fans in the middle of the left field bleachers and there was the old ball game right there.

Grimes Made Big Mistake Throwing Good One To Foxx

Burleigh Grimes Is Dubbed "Hard Luck Pitcher" 1930 World's Series

JIMMY FOXX IS IN SPOTLIGHT

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

ABOARD THE BASEBALL WRITERS SPECIAL ENROUTE TO PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—On to Philadelphia to wind up the world series.

Three "specials" running two hours apart, one bearing the St. Louis Cardinals, another the Philadelphia Athletics and the third a battery of newspaper correspondents and baseball celebrities, were clicking over the rails eastward bound today headed for Philadelphia where the sixth game of the world series will be staged tomorrow.

With the series standing three victories for the A's against two for the Cardinals, it is possible for the Philadelphia club to settled the issue by winning tomorrow.

Held Post Mortems.
Post Mortems of the five games already played and particularly yesterday's contest which the A's won 2 to 0 on Jimmy Foxx's home run in the ninth, were being held aboard train as the ballplayers and writers made the long jump from St. Louis to Philadelphia today.

"What kind of a ball did Burleigh Grimes pitch to Foxx when he poked it into the left bleachers?" This was a much debated question and every person who saw the game had his own opinion. Even Grimes and Foxx differed on what kind of a pitch it was. Grimes said it was a low curve. Foxx declared it was a high fast ball, the kind of a pitch that is right "down his alley." He simply "murdered" the ball.

It was a tough ball game for stout hearted Grimes to lose. He had been pitching an epic game. For the eight innings he had held the A's scoreless even though they had filled the bases with only one down in the eighth. He pitched himself out of that "hole" in magnificent fashion.

Was Unexpected.
Nobody expected after Grimes had pulled out of that tough spot in the eighth, that his downfall was so soon at hand. He looked as if he could keep on pitching scoreless innings out there in the semi-darkness all afternoon. When "Mickey" Cochrane came up as the first batter in the ninth, Grimes who does nearly all the fighting for the Cards himself "razzed" Cochrane a bit. Cochrane gave back as good as Burleigh sent in a conversational way and it wasn't long before he had "worked" Grimes for a walk.

Al Simmons, leading hitter of the American league, came up next. Grimes joshed him about the funny way he has of nervously pawing at his clothes while at bat. The best Simmons could do was punch a high fly to short left field which was easily caught.

Foxx Clouts One.
Up came Foxx while Grimes was wagging his ears at Simmons. Grimes glanced nonchalantly at Foxx, stirred the slippery elm in his cheek with his tongue, bluffed at throwing a splitter and then let the ball fly. Wham! Away it sailed far and high. Douthitt and Haley raced toward the wall in left center and finally stopped and watched the ball drop into the middle of the left field bleachers.

Well, Grimes had made just one mistake. He had pitched the wrong ball for Foxx. And that one slip cost him a game that such pitching would have won 60 times out of a hundred.

In both games Grimes has lost in this series he has allowed but five hits.

American Leaguers Took 6-Game Series

Should the Athletics come through with another victory Thursday it will be the sixth time in 26 years that the post-season event ended with six games and oddly the American league champs took all such series since 1905. The victors were as follows: 1906 Cubs White Sox beat the Cubs; 1911 Athletics won from the Giants; 1917 White Sox defeated the Giants; 1918 Red Sox won from the Cubs and the last six games series found the Yanks victors over the Giants.

Grimes Made Big Mistake Throwing Good One To Foxx

Burleigh Grimes Is Dubbed "Hard Luck Pitcher" 1930 World's Series

JIMMY FOXX IS IN SPOTLIGHT

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

ABOARD THE BASEBALL WRITERS SPECIAL ENROUTE TO PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—On to Philadelphia to wind up the world series.

Three "specials" running two hours apart, one bearing the St. Louis Cardinals, another the Philadelphia Athletics and the third a battery of newspaper correspondents and baseball celebrities, were clicking over the rails eastward bound today headed for Philadelphia where the sixth game of the world series will be staged tomorrow.

With the series standing three victories for the A's against two for the Cardinals, it is possible for the Philadelphia club to settled the issue by winning tomorrow.

Held Post Mortems.
Post Mortems of the five games already played and particularly yesterday's contest which the A's won 2 to 0 on Jimmy Foxx's home run in the ninth, were being held aboard train as the ballplayers and writers made the long jump from St. Louis to Philadelphia today.

"What kind of a ball did Burleigh Grimes pitch to Foxx when he poked it into the left bleachers?" This was a much debated question and every person who saw the game had his own opinion. Even Grimes and Foxx differed on what kind of a pitch it was. Grimes said it was a low curve. Foxx declared it was a high fast ball, the kind of a pitch that is right "down his alley." He simply "murdered" the ball.

It was a tough ball game for stout hearted Grimes to lose. He had been pitching an epic game. For the eight innings he had held the A's scoreless even though they had filled the bases with only one down in the eighth. He pitched himself out of that "hole" in magnificent fashion.

Was Unexpected.
Nobody expected after Grimes had pulled out of that tough spot in the eighth, that his downfall was so soon at hand. He looked as if he could keep on pitching scoreless innings out there in the semi-darkness all afternoon. When "Mickey" Cochrane came up as the first batter in the ninth, Grimes who does nearly all the fighting for the Cards himself "razzed" Cochrane a bit. Cochrane gave back as good as Burleigh sent in a conversational way and it wasn't long before he had "worked" Grimes for a walk.

Al Simmons, leading hitter of the American league, came up next. Grimes joshed him about the funny way he has of nervously pawing at his clothes while at bat. The best Simmons could do was punch a high fly to short left field which was easily caught.

Foxx Clouts One.
Up came Foxx while Grimes was wagging his ears at Simmons. Grimes glanced nonchalantly at Foxx, stirred the slippery elm in his cheek with his tongue, bluffed at throwing a splitter and then let the ball fly. Wham! Away it sailed far and high. Douthitt and Haley raced toward the wall in left center and finally stopped and watched the ball drop into the middle of the left field bleachers.

Well, Grimes had made just one mistake. He had pitched the wrong ball for Foxx. And that one slip cost him a game that such pitching would have won 60 times out of a hundred.

In both games Grimes has lost in this series he has allowed but five hits.

American Leaguers Took 6-Game Series

Should the Athletics come through with another victory Thursday it will be the sixth time in 26 years that the post-season event ended with six games and oddly the American league champs took all such series since 1905. The victors were as follows: 1906 Cubs White Sox beat the Cubs; 1911 Athletics won from the Giants; 1917 White Sox defeated the Giants; 1918 Red Sox won from the Cubs and the last six games series found the Yanks victors over the Giants.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Some duties are a pleasure and among these could be listed the meeting of the school board on Monday evening, or at least the early part of the meeting. For some time the members have been threatening to try out the cooking of the Vocational Home Economics Department of the Senior High School and last night they made good on the threat.

Instead of meeting in the Administration Building and listening to a reading of the minutes of the previous meeting they gathered around the dinner table and said yes every time one of the girls asked them if they would have any more biscuit. For once the board was entirely unanimous.

The meal there was not for the purpose of just eating, but was to see what is being done in this rather unique department. After seeing and tasting for themselves, the board members went on record as being heartily back of the Vocational Home Economics Works and urged the school authorities to develop more interest in it.

In case you don't know, the department is partly paid for by Federal aid, the government standing 40 per cent of the salaries of the two teachers, in charge there, Mrs. Healy and Miss Marshall. The purpose of the department is to turn out girls instructed with the art of home making and this department should not be confused with the usual domestic science department of other schools.

In the domestic science department they take their cooking and sewing and such things on the cafeteria style, picking up a little of this and a little of that. In the Vocational Home Economics Department these subjects are the nucleus of the four year course, and all other subjects such as English, spelling and the like are inter-related. In short, the Vocational Home Economics Department is the same to the girls as the Trade School is to the boys.

For four years the girls study the art of making a home, cooking meals that can be eaten, learning to do their own sewing, care of the sick in the home, and the thousand and one other things that confront the new housewife.

It is not a classical course in the sense that the studies include Spanish, Latin, Greek, and appreciation of Chinese folk songs, but customers, the way they teach those youngsters how to stuff pork chops and prepare potatoes is more than classical, it's symphonic.

Don't get the idea now, that the school board members were up there last night eating at the expense of the tax payers. They weren't. Every one there paid for his own supper and everyone agreed that he got his money's worth.

Herb McIlvenny is the chairman of the cafeteria committee of the school board and while this didn't come strictly within the scope of his activities, like a statesman, he "pointed with pride" to the achievements of the young ladies taking the course, and also statesmanlike he "viewed with alarm" the number of hot biscuits that Fred Hyde ate.

In concluding his remarks to the girls of the department who did all the work, under the supervision of Mrs. Healy and Miss Marshall, Mr. McIlvenny said to them that if they could continue such work when they were married, they would never have any trouble keeping the husband home at night.

All of which is right. If they continue cooking like this, their husbands won't be able to walk out at night, they'll be so full of food.

Mr. McIlvenny later waxed poetical and broke out in a rash of verse. The poem he recited is short and snappy, and maybe you'd like to read it too. This is it. If you're a calorie hound you may enjoy it.

"Methuselah ate what he found on his plate, And never as people do now, Did he note the amount of the calorie count, He ate it because it was chow."

He wasn't disturbed as at dinner he sat, Destroying a roast or a pie To think they were lacking in granular fat, Or a couple of vitamins shy.

He cheerfully chewed every specie of food, Untroubled by worry or fear, Lest his health might be hurt by some fancy dessert, And he lived over nine hundred years."

Sir Henry Thornton, Once P. R. R. Superintendent Here Speaks With London From Fast Canadian Train

A railroad president whose early executive training was acquired while he served as trainmaster and superintendent of the Pennsylvania's Erie and Ashtabula division here, Sir Henry Thornton, Canadian National head, played the principal role the other day in a train trans-oceanic telephone call which demonstrates the future possibility of communication.

Sitting in his private car attached to one of the National's fastest trains, speeding over the rails at 60 miles an hour, Sir Henry was interrupted by an attendant. You are wanted on the telephone, he said. Mr. Thornton found that C. J. Smith, European president of the company was on the other end of the line.

Though the distance between them was 3,000 miles of land and sea, they were able to conduct a conversation without the slightest difficulty. The astonishing feat was performed by means of a small sending apparatus on board the train.

Interest Groups Hear Professional

Frederick Jochum, Professional Make-up Man Gives Lecture And Novel Demonstration

A unique and interesting meeting of Monday was that of the Senior high school interest groups of the Girl Reserve Club when they met at the Y. W. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock last evening. The dramatic group, Miss Nettie Dyer in charge arranged a most unusual program.

They had Frederick Jochum, a graduate of the Washington and Lee College of Virginia, who also played with the Washington and Lee Dramatic Club for three years, and later was a professional actor in Chicago, Ill., present to give a lecture and a demonstration on the art of make-up. This was most interesting. He demonstrated and explained as he went along, making up a Chinese, Japanese, an elderly lady, a flapper, etc., that was really very clever. Mr. Jochum is now associated with the White Studio at Washington, D. C. where he is the professional in juvenile make-up.

All the Interest Groups joined to hear this lecture and novel demonstration, that was indeed intensely interesting to all those in attendance.
